GEOG	5400	01	95732	SEMINAR:HUMAN GEOGRAPHY	W	6:00 PM	8:45 PM	Canvas	LEC	Bezdecny,Kristine Michelle	3	This course will investigate the COVID-19 pandemic from a human geographical perspective, exploring its beginnings, spread, dynamics, and ongoing sociospatial consequences. Driving our discussions will be numerous case studies at the local, (inter)national, and global scales, such as: comparing the responses of Vietnam and Sweden in the first wave of COVID-19; the geopolitical pressure to limit Ukrainian and Iranian access to the vaccine; the impacts of COVID-19 variants in South Africa, UK, Nigeria, and Los Angeles; and the unevenness of the case and death tolls, with a discussion of the causes and consequences in the countries with the most cases (such as the U.S.). The course also provides graduate geography students and graduate students in related social sciences and the humanities an outlet to explore this dynamic holistically, in real-time.	Open
