The Wende Museum Unveils its New Home at the Culver City Armory

The Wende Museum -- an innovative arts and education institution for Cold War Eastern European and Soviet history -- is proud to present our 2014 program series. Please join us to celebrate 25 years without the Berlin Wall and the unveiling of the Museum's new home at the Culver City Armory. The programs examine topics of relocation, displacement and memory, looking at the ways in which people have moved between East and West and at the dispersal and movement of the Berlin Wall around the world. The series culminates with a Community Open House on Sunday afternoon, November 9, 2014, and the launch of a TASCHEN publication on the Museum's East German collection.
