ARTICLE AUTHORS

Christian Banuelos is a first-year graduate student in the Department of History at Cal State LA. He received his B.A. in Biology from Whittier College in May 2022 and a multiple-subject teaching credential from the College of Education at Cal State LA in 2024. A second-generation Mexican American and Los Angeles native, Banuelos's academic interests encompass Mesoamerican history (particularly pre-Columbian Mexico), Chicano history, music history, and the history of Los Angeles. The convergence of these interests led to "Making Ends Meet: Agency of Thee Midniters During the Chicano Movement." He aims to develop this research as he advances in his academic career. Banuelos's passion for music informs his studies on the intersection of music, culture, and history.

Jeanette Calderon is completing a History B.A. with minors in Asian and Asian American Studies and Latin American Studies at Cal State LA in May 2025. As a Mellon Mays Fellow, her research interests are educational institutions and multi-ethnic communities in Los Angeles from the 1970s to the 1980s. A former UCLA Law Fellow, Jeanette is committed to becoming a lawyer to serve immigrant communities like her own. Currently, she works at Cal State LA's Erika J. Glazer Family Dreamers Resource Center and is an intern with the Center for Asian Americans United for Self Employment (CAUSE).

Lizbeth Mars is a first-generation undergraduate at Cal State LA, completing her B.A. in History with the Teacher Preparation Option and a minor in Child Development. She intends to pursue a Single-Subject Teaching Credential in Social Studies following graduation. Her passion lies in reaching out to younger generations through the art of teaching. Lizbeth is particularly interested in exploring how historical narratives shape our understanding of the present. She hopes to inspire students to think historically and apply their knowledge to the world around them. She finds solace in spending time with her loved ones, including her cats, and spreading the notion of treating people with kindness.

Anthony Sales-Hernandez is in his final semester as an M.A. student in History at Cal State LA. He received his B.A. in History from the University of Southern California in May 2023. His research interests include twentieth-century US-Mexico borderlands, with an emphasis on labor, identity, and food studies. He is President of Cal State LA's Phi Alpha Theta, Eta Xi chapter and has served as a Graduate Assistant for several undergraduate US History courses, and as a Thesis Reviewer for the Graduate Resource Center. He intends to pursue a PhD at UC Santa Barbara in History and mentor underrepresented students. He would like to thank Drs. Angela Vergara, Chris Endy, Enrique Ochoa, Scott Wells, Kittiya Lee, Eileen Ford, Birte Pfleger, Dawn Dennis, Jay Rubenstein, Lindsay O'Neill, Aro Velmet, Marjorie Becker, and Rebecca Herman for their involvement in his development; the Perspectives editorial team for their suggestions; and lastly, Maria and Luis for their support.

Peter Wassell is a historian of the Caribbean who focuses on nineteenth and twentieth-century Haiti. He graduated from Cal State LA in December 2024 with a master's degree in History and plans to pursue a PhD in History. While attending Cal State LA, Peter received the 2023-2024 Eugene Fingerhut Award for outstanding graduate student; served as an Editor in Chief of Volume 51 of Perspectives, and served as treasurer for the Eta Xi chapter of Phi Alpha Theta. He wishes to thank Professors Endy, Lee, Pfleger, and Shutz for challenging him with fresh ideas and for holding him accountable for the quality of his work. He also wishes to thank his wife, Ima, for her support. He loves her dearly.

Lachlan Streeter is a second-year graduate student in History at Cal State LA with an emphasis on ancient Christianity and US history. He received his B.A. in History from Valparaiso University in 2022. "Planting the Proper Seeds in the Proper Garden: Christian Growth in Ancient Antioch" is his first publication in an academic journal. He is looking forward to graduating in the spring of 2025 and beginning to teach history. He is eagerly awaiting his first high school classroom assignment in the Los Angeles area. Lachlan thanks his professors for teaching him to think and work like a historian.