

Janice Justo Vieri Quinones
Diego Rivas Cian Carlo Yulo

LBS 2400: Introduction to Environmental Humanities

“Before and After” Visualization Poster

The visualization of our site includes California wildrose, California poppy, lavender, magnolia, and black elder. These plants promote ecotherapy which aids in physical well-being and overall health. According to the book The Visual Culture Reader by Nicholas Mirzoeff, “Visuality demonstrates authority, which produces consent” (Mirzoeff, XXX). Based on how people interpret the visual, they may gain a new interest and focus on the issues presented to them. Furthermore, the book Urban Jungle: The History and Future of Nature in the City by Ben Wilson mentions that “New York contains more species than Yosemite National Park” adding to biodiversity (Wilson, XI).

