Association and Senate Committees engage In Productive Session

The Executive Committee of the Emeriti Association had a most successful session of an hour and a half with the Executive Committee of the Academic Senate on February 17.

Among the wide range of topics discussed were assistance of emeriti in counseling students in the new Advisement Center, involvement of emeriti in the pre-retirement sessions conducted by the Personnel Office for faculty, eligibility of emeriti representation on University committees.

There was also discussion of the need for further clarification of the policy involving granting of emeriti status, and the Association was invited to submit ideas and recommendations.

The Senate Committee endorsed with enthusiasm the proposal for an annual Emeriti Day on campus. It was agreed that the celebration should begin with the fifth anniversary of the founding of the Emeriti Association on February 9, 1983.

The two bodies agreed that another joint session should be held during the Fall Quarter of 1982.

The Editor Would Like To Hear From You Folk

Have you missed the "Professional and Personal" feature in recent issues? Actually, there was neither time nor space to include this item in this issue, but our source file of communications from you is nearly depleted. Let us hear from you, please.

How about you who are travelers sending in some tips about some of the unusually interesting experiences you have had?

We Want You to Know

If you are one of that small number (27) who have forgotten to send in your dues for 1981-82, here's a fact you should know: It costs the Association $5 a year to print and mail this Emeritimes to you. Treasurer Al Tuonino would be might pleased to hear from you.

Latest membership records show that we now have eight Contributing/Life ($100) Members and 24 Life ($50) Members. This adds up to the kind of support your Emeriti Association really appreciates.
